

Have you ever wondered what life is all about?

Every Bible includes a book entitled “Ecclesiastes.” It is one of five Old Testament books of wisdom literature, and the late J.I. Packer described it as “...a flowing meditation on the business of living.”

It’s a new year and perhaps the time is perfect to revisit the question and take a hard look at the “business of living’ as found in the Book of Ecclesiastes. Join us for a weekly study of Ecclesiastes starting on Wednesday, January 20, 2021, on Zoom at 7:00 pm. If you would like to participate, send me an email with your name and contact information so I can respond with the Zoom information. If you have questions, feel free to call me at 202-257-7235. My phone has a DC area code, but I live right here in NJ. My email is: margpeterson@comcast.net

My name is Marg Peterson and I have been teaching Bible classes for 30+ years. It is one of my favorite hobbies. The class is designed for adults and teenagers, both men and women. The class is open to interested people of any denomination or no specific church affiliation. Discussion and questions are a part of learning, so they are welcomed. I ask that students come with inquisitive minds, ready to learn and make applications. We will examine Ecclesiastes using various translations as well as teachings from Bible scholars renown for their writings and teachings on scriptures.

Author Phillip Yancey says of Ecclesiastes, “In a nutshell, it calls us to accept our status as creatures under the dominion of the Creator, something few of us do without a struggle.”
